Different games.

Our bet: shape the route.

Game	Core loop	Web3 role	Our focus
Slimecoin	Mobile mini-games	USDC weekly score pool	Our maze decisions
Mattle.fun	Survival	Activity-driven character boosts	Our paper world
Billiards Clash	Competitive billiards / bot	Specific mechanics not established	Our wallet-free practice
SEEKER: TD	Maze tower defense	Devnet SOL / test-SKR checkout source	Routes + paper + practice

Adjacent games, not direct tower-defense competitors. “Our focus” describes our own features, not features others lack. Demand hypothesis, not measured PMF.

THE INTERACTION

Placement becomes pathfinding.

Place a tower

Reshape the maze

Reroute enemies

Balance a longer route against useful firing positions.

Paper-world identity. Damage + control combinations.

PRODUCT DEMO

A board you can play.

- ↳ Place and upgrade towers
- ↳ Combine damage and control
- ↳ Start the next wave

A collection of handcrafted paper models for a game, displayed on a light-colored tiled surface. The models include various towers and structures: a large blue and white tower with a long barrel, a green and brown tower with three orange-tipped cannons, a large orange and brown tower with two large cannons, a small grey and orange tower, a green and grey tower with a green barrel, and a small grey and orange tower. There are also several small, pink, tent-like structures with black eyes, a small brown and black insect-like unit, and a small brown and black unit with a shield and spear. The models are made of various colored paper and cardboard, with some featuring painted details. The overall style is a mix of low-poly and hand-drawn aesthetics.
